BOWLS LAW: The second from team A and the third from Team B have the same coloured bowls. When the third from Team B goes to the mat he finds one of his bowls missing. It has already been played by the second from team A. The Skipper from Team A claims the third must forfeit a bowl as his has already been played. Is he correct?

Answer: No. The Third from Team B simply replaces his already played bowl with the correct one and plays both his own bowls. Law 29.2.1
