EDITOR RAMBLINGS

Members,

We've got a couple of championship competitions going on at the moment. The Major Pairs will be completed in a couple of weeks and team Clarke doing battle with team Everingham. Should be a cracker. Also, the Mixed Pairs is getting close to the final.

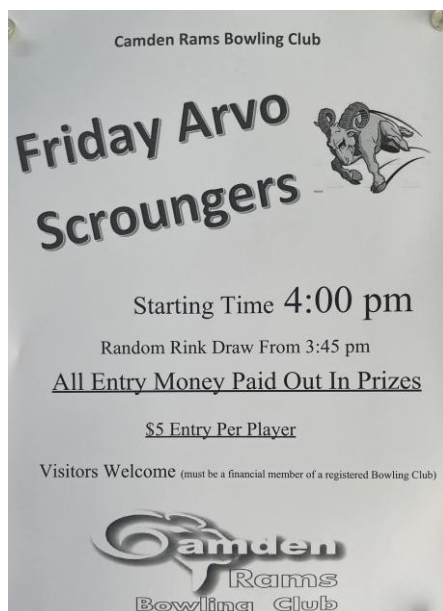

The sheet is up for the Challenge Pairs.

On the Pennants front, The Rams have not had the success we were hoping for in the higher grades but the 6's and 7's are still in with a great chance.

Cheers,

Dennis Crouch

MEMBER PROFILE – BRUCE KING

Bruce King was born in Ryde Hospital on the 9th June 1954 so he is one of our younger members. He grew up in the nearby suburb of South Wentworthville in the house his dad and Uncle built. His parents lived in boarding houses until constructing their own house in Monterey Street which at the time was surrounded by cow paddocks with no sealed roads, sewerage or even septic facilities. He can still remember the night cart man coming by to pick up the creosote treated can from the outside dunny.

In 1960 Bruce began his schooling at Wentworth Public School. Hilltop school was the closest one, but it did not have sewer, so Mum decided Bruce had to attend Wentworthville because that was sewer. When his class graduated to high school all his mates went to Greystanes High, but Bruce was sent to Merrylands because that was where his elder sister went. There he played Rugby League and cricket and was soon accepted by his peers. He was a member of the team that won the Lansdowne Rugby League Zone Q competition in 1968.

Leaving school at 16 he completed an electrical apprenticeship with Prospect County Council before leaving to work with Stowe Australia where he stayed for most of his working life. Here he eventually reached the position of Client Manager installing infrastructure for Optus. One night he spent a whole shift at the peak of the Centrepoint tower maintaining a generator throughout the night with the lights of Sydney sprawled out below and a universe of stars above.

He was foreman on many large construction projects in Brisbane and Sydney managing teams of people and a constant flow of materials but in the early 2000's Bruce decided to be independent and work for himself. He bought a six-tonne truck and began local deliveries. Unfortunately, no matter how hard he worked the money wasn't there, so he returned to electrical work at Stowes and stayed with them until his retirement.

Seeking the laid-back country lifestyle Lyn and Bruce moved to Queensland for five years working as a foreman with Stowes. One of his first major jobs was renovating the Brisbane Industrial Prison, Wacol (Now the Brisbane Correctional Centre). Here the workers were warned not to run their fingers under the tables or above the doorjambes as the prisoners would stick razor blades there to catch unwary guards on their contraband searches. As their work left them exposed to the prison population they had to be escorted everywhere by two guards. It made working very difficult.

Family and their growing grandchildren drew them back to Sydney and the Narellan area which was affordable and quiet at that time. Still employed as a construction foreman he was head-hunted to control work on two of the three entrance lobbies to the International Towers commercial skyscraper complex in the Sydney central business district at Barangaroo. Lend Lease were the contractors for the buildings with Stowes subcontracting the electrical work and they needed someone who could get the job done.

One of his many memorable experiences was walking underground all the way from Broadway to Martin Place in the old convict constructed tunnels which are now service tunnels under the city. They were hand hewn and lined with handmade bricks. Millions of them. He has also walked the convict tunnels used to transport prisoners from Victoria Barracks to the courthouse.

Bruce took up lawn bowls on retirement at the urging of his wife Lyn who wanted him out of the house and doing a sporting hobby. Alex Matheson gave him a few lessons before he was 'ready to go.' Alex encouraged him to play Trific Tuesday and then move onto Thursday Social.

When he was younger, he used to watch the ABC show Jack High in black and white with players like Rob Parella and Ian Schubeck featured, so this gave him an idea of what the game was about.

Asked, what were his most notable achievements on the green, besides winning the C Singles in 2021, he replied that he was still waiting but skipping a rink into the Grade Seven Pennant finals in his first year of bowls was pretty satisfying.

A club does not function without volunteers, so Bruce put himself forward to serve on the Match Committee. It's no good sitting on your hands and complaining unless you can help run the club by volunteering for some part of it.

His best experience with Camden Bowling Club has been meeting and playing with a great bunch of people. This includes cleaning up after the floods and helping with topdressing the greens when required.

THE ENIGMA OF THE EGYPTIANS

The Great Pyramid of Cheops contains an enigma that no historian or archaeologist likes to talk about. All archaeologists agree that the structure of the pyramid is composed of some 2,400,000 rock blocks weighing between 2 and 70 tonnes. Each of these rock blocks was positioned with absolute precision, as the pyramid has a margin of error of only 1 centimetre at the base, and only 1 degree of alignment to the north. A similar result can only be achieved today with laser-guided construction systems.

But it is not the precision with which the Great Pyramid was built that is impressive. Nor do we want to go into how the blocks were transported. Instead, the 'hundred-gun question' is another: how long did it take them? Why is this 'the question of all questions' to be asked?

Assuming that Egyptian workers managed to cut, transport and place 1 block a day, it would have taken exactly  $(2,400,000 : 365)$  years to build the Great Pyramid, i.e. 6,575 years to finish it. This means that the pyramid, given for completion in about 2,500 B.C., would have been started in at least 9,000 B.C. But according to archaeologists, the Great Pyramid was built in only 10 years around 2,500 B.C. What does this statement imply?

To be built in about 10 years, as official archaeology teaches, calculating that work was only done in daylight and thus 10 hours a day, each block of the pyramid must have been cut, transported and placed at the rate of minus 1 every minute, i.e. one every 60 seconds or so.  $(1 \text{ block} \times 60 \text{ minutes} \times 10 \text{ hours} \times 365 \text{ days} \times 10 \text{ years}) = 2,190,000$ . Can you imagine a group of workers with tools as soft as copper, who do not even know the wheel in that time, cutting blocks from 2 to 70 tonnes, transporting them on logs via ramps and placing 1 every minute without interruption, every day, every week, every month, every year, for 10 years? I honestly have some difficulty.

The Great Pyramid was certainly built by people who lived in the place where it was found. But it is quite evident that the time it was built, and perhaps also the people who built it, are probably not what many people think.

BENEFITS OF A GOOD VOCABULARY!

I recently called an old Engineering buddy of mine and asked what he was working on these days.

He replied that he was working on "Aqua-thermal treatment of ceramics, aluminum and steel under a constrained environment."

I was impressed until, upon further inquiry, I learned that he was washing dishes with hot water under his wife's supervision.
