EDITOR RAMBLINGS

Members,

The regional singles have now been completed. We only had one player go through to the final and that was Michael Ryles. He played great bowls to get to the final but unfortunately he lost to the Austral young gun. Great effort mate.

October sees the commencement of all the singles.....Major, "C", Minor and Consistency. Good luck to all entrants.

Cheers,

Dennis Crouch

THE CHANGING OF THE GUARD

And so we say farewell to our much esteemed Treasurer Bob Wareham and thank him for his devotion to the club and his expertise and commitment which has seen our club in such a good financial position. We wish him all the best as he drives off into the sunset of being simply a Camden Bowler.

AND we welcome Craig Orth to the position. Craig has a wealth of financial experience and a desire to contribute to our club in many ways. He has previously been involved in the Tolling industry with the Sydney Harbour Bridge and Tunnel and West Connex. He brings to our club a significant financial management background.

In retirement he has established Sweetwater Consulting Pty Ltd where he is the Managing Director and Principle Consultant.

He has more than 35 years of diverse executive management across Government agencies and private enterprises.

It hasn't taken him long to settle in and have a good time with some of our clubs 'good time guys and girls'. Here he is having a day out at Revesby Workers Club.

AROUND THE GREENS

CHALLENGE PAIRS

This month saw the completion of Challenge Pairs. The final was a great game, which went to a tiebreak. Josh Lord and Greg Hannah were worthy winners. Thank you to Gail who filled in for Greg Hoddy. Greg had to pull out due to a serious eye injury. In a weird twist of fate, Karl also had to fill in in the final and Gail had to skip. She did a great job in that role.

PINK ON THE RINK

A great day hosted by the ladies club. A fun day which raised $1000 for the Sony Foundation.

THE WINNERS

WISEMANS PARK OVER 50s

Yet another great turn up from Camden Bowling Club

FIRST PLACE

THIRD PLACE

AUSTRAL 5,6,7 TRIPLES

Third place winners at the Austral 5,6,7 Triples were Camden's Kerry Lowe, Mike Ryles and Ken Morrell. First place in the drinking competition were Mick Xbox, Steve Cohen and Linc McLaren. A great day was had by all.

RESERVE SINGLES

Great effort by Michael Ryles to get to the final of this event. He was right in the game early but unfortunately he went down to a young hot shot from Austral in difficult conditions.

Again there was good support from the Rams club

MEMBER PROFILE – KEITH PHEGAN

Keith Phegan is a lot more than the little man who takes your money on a Thursday with a glass of red at his elbow. He has lived all over Australia and been involved in many different sports.

Born in the City of Sydney Keith spent his first few years in Arncliffe and Neutral Bay before the family moved to Riverwood where he started school and then he went on to East Hills Boys High where he played all the usual sports in rugby, cricket, tennis and basketball. Graduating with his Leaving Certificate he began five years at university studying for his Bachelor's Degree in Commerce majoring in Accountancy. Then he did a post graduate diploma in Cost Accounting. What little free time he had was taken up with motorbikes and tennis. Being a part time course Keith worked at various companies like Shell, Nestle and Taubman's as a clerical assistant as part of his course training. He rode his motorbike to and from work and claimed it was the only way to travel.

In fact, he raced bikes in short circuit scrambles and was very competitive but only at club level.

After marrying Maureen, he went to work for her uncle who compiled the greyhound racing recorder. Dissatisfied with the lack of potential Keith took up a job with James Hardie of asbestos fame. Conditions were not conducive to good health, but the staff were a happy bunch, and many good times were enjoyed by all. And all his friends lived on! About a thousand people worked there until it was closed in the mid 80's and all thought it was a good place to work.

Keith was encouraged to give up motorbikes as he had few near misses. One day he returned home to Pennant Hills with Maureen meeting him at the door with his helmet in one hand and his jacket in the other demanding an explanation for the damage on them. The previous day he had gone for a spill when he hit an oil slick going downhill on a bend. That was the end of the motorbikes.

Ensuing years saw Keith active in his lifelong passion of sailing. He sailed a 12-foot Gwen at the St George Sailing Club at Taren Point. Although once again competitive at just club level he enjoyed the fellowship and camaraderie the most. He contributed to the Milane Sailing club by laying the course, manning the start line and piloting the safety boat looking for upturned sailors.

Pennant Hills saw his first foray into lawn bowls when a neighbour introduced him to the sport but at this time in his life kids' sport took most of his time.

With a company car a big enticement for the move. Keith and Maureen accepted a transfer to Adelaide where Keith took on the duties of Chief Bean Counter with Iplex Plastics, a subsidiary of James Hardie.

He continued with sport in his spare time with squash and sailing being his choice. In Adelaide he sailed a 12-foot catamaran which proved a very fast craft. He was extremely competitive in the catamaran class taking a National Title in a competition in Victoria. He then switched to a 16-footer so his daughter could sail with him but eventually she found someone younger and better looking to sail with so he returned to the 14-foot class.

After eighteen years with James Hardie Keith decided it was time for a change so bought into a Graphic Arts company. This was a new horizon and very interesting work totally outside of anything he had done previously. His business partner also sailed and played golf, so they got on really well.

Retiring from the Graphic Arts company after fourteen years, Keith and Maureen moved across the continent to Mandurah near Perth to be closer to family. There they had a nice house on the estuary enjoying the seaside lifestyle with crabbing, fishing and crayfishing. Here Keith played golf at the undulating Halls Head Golf Club and continued his interest in squash.

Realising that readily available babysitting was holding his son back from advancement with his company Alcoa who required him to go overseas, Keith and Maureen moved again. This time to Airlie Beach in Queensland.

Here the fish were big, but the crocodiles were bigger and there were too many bites in the water to go sailing. This is where Keith worked on his basic bowls game at the Airlie Beach Bowls club with about 30 members.

With the demise of Ansett there was only one flight a week out of Airlie Beach so once again Keith and Maureen moved so they had easier access to family. This time to the Gold Coast where they joined the Helensvale Bowling club. Keith was once again involved in administration organising the Tuesday Social Mixed and Friday Men's Pairs.

Here he met two most notable bowlers. Brett Wilkie and Nathan Rice were both World Champions and National Champions yet were not above playing in a carnival with Grade 7 players and having a beer afterwards. At one competition at Tweed Heads, Brett suggested they change positions with each game rather than having a national champion skipper every game.

One day Keith was playing against Nathan and having an exceptional game at lead dropping the bowl on the jack every time when the great man, after several ends said, 'Keith, stop getting them so close to the jack as I only have to keep knocking them off.' Which is exactly what he was doing.

A highlight of his retirement has been to follow the State Sides Series where each state selects a team to compete against each other. Just like a national pennant competition. The couple hook up the caravan and travel all over the country to the host city. They have visited every capital city except Darwin, taking great pleasure in watching the top players perform.

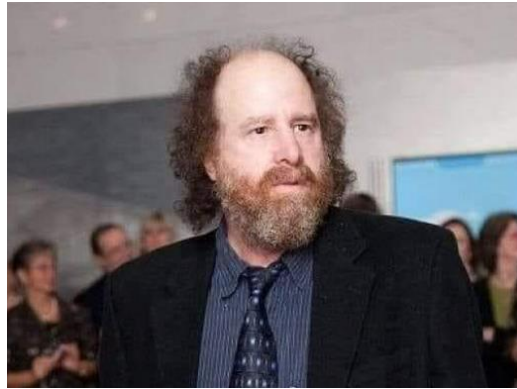

Keith Phegan has lived in four states and fourteen different houses, been married for 59 years to a wonderful woman and met some amazing people in his long life. Sailing has been his greatest love as far as sport is concerned and he has always been committed to giving something back to the club. This is exactly what he is doing in Camden. Playing, contributing and enjoying a red wine with it.

Danish architect Jørn Utzon's Sydney Opera House design, with its innovative sail-like shells, faced significant engineering and construction challenges. The project also encountered cost overruns and political pressures, resulting in Utzon's resignation in 1966. Despite these hurdles, the Sydney Opera House, completed in 1973, stands as a testament to Utzon's visionary design and the collaborative effort that brought his iconic concept to life.

BRUTAL these words from actor Anthony Hopkins:

Let go of people who are not ready to love you.

This is the hardest thing you'll ever have to do in your life and it will also be the most important thing.

Stop having difficult conversations with people who don't want to change.

Stop showing up for people who are not interested in your presence.

I know your instinct is to do everything possible to gain the appreciation of those around you, but it's an impulse that steals your time, energy, mental and physical health.

When you start fighting for a life with joy, interest and commitment, not everyone will be ready to follow you to that place.

It doesn't mean you have to change who you are; it means you have to let go of people who aren't ready to be with you.

If you are excluded, insulted, forgotten or ignored by the people you give your time to, you are not doing yourself a favour by continuing to offer them your energy and your life.

Truth is you ain't for everybody and everybody ain't for you.

This is what makes it so special when you find people you have friendship with or mutual love.

You will know how precious it is because you have experienced what is not.

There are billions of people on this planet and many of them you will find at your level of interest and commitment.

Maybe if you stop showing up, they won't look for you.

Maybe if you stop trying, the relationship ends.

Maybe if you stop texting, your phone will stay dark for weeks.

That doesn't mean you ruined the relationship; it means the only thing sustaining it was the energy you only gave to keep it.

That's not love, that's attachment.

It's giving a chance to those who don't deserve it!

You deserve so much more.

The most valuable thing you have in your life is your time and energy, as both are limited.

The people and things you give your time and energy to, will define your existence.

When you realize this, you start to understand why you are so anxious when you spend time with people, activities or spaces that don't suit you and shouldn't be near you.

You will start to realize that the most important thing you can do for yourself and everyone around you is to protect your energy more fiercely than anything else.

Make your life a safe haven, where only people "compatible" with you are allowed.

You are not responsible for saving anyone.

You are not responsible for convincing them to do better.

It's not your job to exist for people and give them your life!

You deserve real friendships, true commitments and a complete love with healthy and prosperous people.

Decision to distance yourself from toxic people, will give you the love, esteem, happiness and protection you deserve.

TINA TURNER

Very inspirational...

Ike may have opened doors for her ...

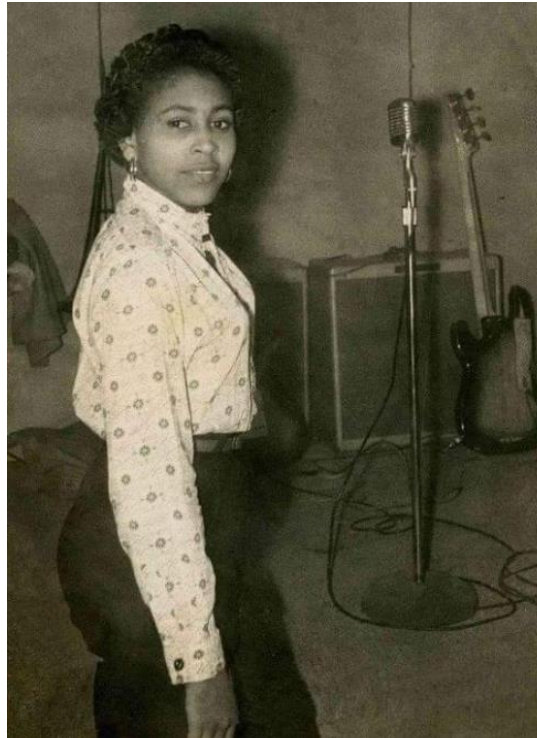

But it was Tina herself who blew the doors off their hinges!

In the divorce she made it clear she did not want any money, any property and....she only wanted to keep her stage name.

In 1984, at the age of 45, she released the hugely successful album "Private Dancer". In a sea of much younger female artists and super groups she achieved chart success and one of the songs, "What's Love Got to Do with It" was a chart phenomenon.

She said "he can keep the belongings ..

Because I now have my future!"

When Tina Turner left her first husband - who was also her boss, captor, and brutal tormentor - she snuck out of their Dallas hotel room with a single thought in her mind: "The way out is through the door." From there she fled across the midnight freeway, semi-trucks careening past her, with 36 cents and a Mobil gas card in her pocket. As soon as she decided to walk out that door, she owned nothing else.

When she filed for divorce, she made an unusual request. She didn't want anything: not the song rights, not the cars, not the houses, not the money. All she wanted was the stage name he gave her - Tina - and her married name - Turner. This was the name by which the world had come to know her, and keeping it was her only chance to salvage her career.

Things could have gone a lot of ways from there. She could have laboured in obscurity for decades, maybe making records on small labels to be prized by vinyl connoisseurs in Portland. She could have stayed in Vegas, where she first went to get her chops back up, and worked as a nostalgia act. And, of course, given what she had been through, she might have ... not made it.

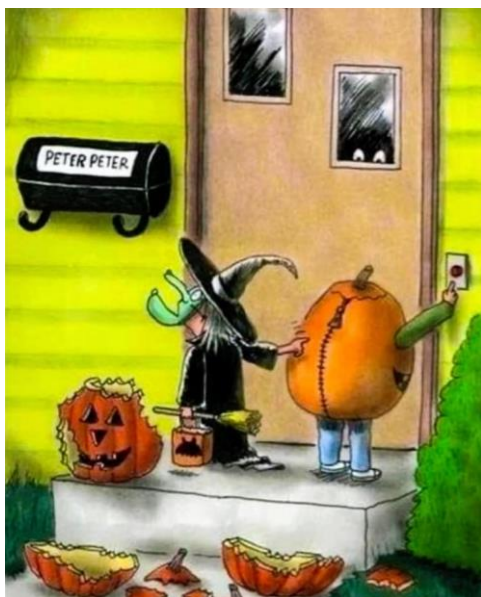

What happened instead is that Tina Turner became the biggest global rock star of the 80s. I'm old enough to barely remember this, but if you aren't, it was like this: The Rolling Stones would headline a stadium one day, and the next day it would be Tina Turner. A middle-aged Black woman - she became a rock star at 42! - sitting atop the 1980s like it was her throne. She managed this because of whatever rare stuff she was made of (this is a woman whose label gave her two weeks to record her solo debut, Private Dancer, which went five times platinum); because she decided to speak publicly about her abusive marriage and forge her own identity, and in doing so give hope and courage to countless women; and also because - in a perhaps unlikely twist for a girl from Nutbush, Tennessee - she had her practice of Soka Gakkai Nichiren Buddhism, to which she credited her survival. She remained devout until the end.

Tina's second marriage - to her, her only marriage - was to Edwin Bach, a Swiss music executive 16 years her junior. Of him, she said, "Erwin, who is a force of nature in his own right, has never been the least bit intimidated by my career, my talents, or my fame." In 2016, after a barrage of health problems, Tina's kidneys began to fail. A Swiss citizen by then, she had started preparing for assisted suicide when her husband stepped in. According to Tina, he said, "He didn't want another woman, or another life." He gave her one of his kidneys, buying her the remainder of her time on this earth and perhaps closing a cycle which took her from a man who inflicted injury upon her to a man willing to inflict injury upon himself to save her from harm.

Born into a share-cropping family as Anna Mae Bullock in 1939, she died Tina Turner in a palatial Swiss estate: the queen of rock 'n roll; a storm of a performer with a wildcat-fierce voice; a dancer of visceral, spine-tingling potency and ability; a beauty for the ages; a survivor of terrible abuse and an advocate for others in similar situations; an author and actress; a devout Buddhist; a wife and mother; a human being of rare talent and perseverance who, through her transcendent brilliance, became a legend.

How to Wash a Cat

1. Put both lids of the toilet up and add 1/8 cup of pet shampoo to the water in the bowl.
2. Pick up the cat and soothe him while you carry him towards the bathroom.
3. In one smooth movement, put the cat in the toilet and close the lid. You may need to stand on the lid.
4. At this point the cat will self agitate and make ample suds. Never mind the noises that come from the toilet — the cat is actually enjoying this.
5. Flush the toilet three or four times. This provides a "Power-Wash" and "Rinse."
6. Have someone open the front door of your home. Be sure that there are no people between the bathroom and the front door.
7. Stand well back behind the toilet as far as you can and quickly lift the lid.
8. The cat will rocket out of the toilet, streak through the bathroom, and run outside where he will dry himself off.
9. Both the toilet and the cat will be sparkling clean.
